

FOX HOLLOW JUNIOR GOLF 2010

JUNIOR GOLFERS UNITE!!!

Welcome to the 2010 Junior Golf Program at Fox Hollow Golf Club

Each program we offer has the same simple goals—to help junior golfers improve, enjoy, and better understand the game of golf. For 2010, Fox Hollow will continue to offer several options for junior golfers of all skill levels:

- A Group Clinic for beginner and intermediate junior golfers geared more toward instruction than on-course play.
- A 9-hole League for the intermediate junior golfers ready for play on a regulation-length course.
- An 18-hole League for the intermediate to advanced junior golfers ready to tackle the full course.
- NEW—A Spring Program for 6-11th graders looking to jump-start their summer golf games with an eye toward making their school team in 2011 and beyond.
- And as always, private junior lessons are available with PGA Professional Eric Larson.

Tuesday 18-Hole League

The Tuesday morning 18-hole league will run for 8 sessions, starting on June 15 and running through August 3. This league is geared toward intermediate to advanced junior golfers who are comfortable with basic rules, etiquette and pace of play guidelines for a regulation-length golf course. This is an on-course golf league and will not include instruction. Different events will be held each week, letting league members experience a variety of golf formats.

Tuesday 9-Hole League

The Tuesday morning 9-hole league will run for 8 sessions, on the same dates as the 18-hole league above. This league is geared toward junior golfers who are ready for 9-hole events on a regulation-length golf course. Individual and team events will expose league members to a variety of games within the game. Course etiquette, the rules of golf, and general course information will be reviewed at the start of the league. This is an on-course golf league and will not include instruction.

Thursday Group Clinic

Thursday morning is the time for golf instruction. For the junior golfers not quite ready to tackle a weekly golf league, the Thursday group clinics will be the perfect fit. This program will spend four sessions on the practice range and putting green, and the final session will offer a taste of the golf course in a fun event. The instructional sessions will start with the pre-swing basics and proceed through the short game, the full swing and everything in between. The final session will be an on-course event with tips on course etiquette and the rules of golf, followed by a chance to play the course.

Fox Hollow Spring League

This program is in its second year after a successful trial run with the Rogers Golf Team last spring. The Fox Hollow Spring League is geared toward any middle school or high school golfer looking for a comprehensive program that includes instruction, practice range time, on-course time, and on-course competition, all in preparation to make a school golf team in 2011 and beyond. Mixed in with PGA instruction from Head Golf Professional Eric Larson and on-course rounds at Fox Hollow, we will play matches against other spring teams from the NW suburbs to simulate the season of a high school golfer. The Spring League will meet on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays for six weeks, offering 18 sessions of PGA-supervised spring golf.
